

The Zoo of Superheroes

This story comes from a fill-in-the-blanks-style storytelling activity held at our 2018 volunteer appreciation luncheon: The Interrobang?!

Once upon a time, there was a gooey lion who was a superhero. Her name was Bonnie and she could read minds. She also had the power to run really fast. Her best friend was a flying albondigas superhero named Kelly. They both loved to squish and had fluffy talent. They played together 6 times a day, until after superhero school. Kelly and Bonnie lived in a fancy apartment building that looked really funny. It had big bananas with pages from poetry books in them. Whenever people walked by, they said, "Oh my Obama!" The apartment was bored and surprising with holes around the windows.

One Thursday, there was a tiger named Jessie who was swimming down the sidewalk and when she looked up at the windows, she saw something scary happening. She saw a bear as willing as the Eiffel Tower falling from the sky and it was headed right toward the apartment where Bonnie and Kelly lived! Just before it flew into Bonnie's apartment, Bonnie's super leg and arm sensed the danger and she fell out the window! But she forgot one thing. "I can't dance!" she screamed. Kelly heard her and dabbed out of her apartment window. She caught Bonnie, but then they remembered that other people were in the apartment who weren't superheroes and the apartment started to catch on fire.

...What happens next?
